It creates a desire in me to go around the world to share and shadow in each cultural arena. This book is essential for the mission minded midwife! Go for it. You won't regret it. This book is chock full of ways to improve the birthing outcomes for mothers (first time and seasoned) and the babies! 2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. A must read for all involved in the birthing world By J. E. M. Boer Every person involved in the birthing world must read this brilliant book. This is a detailed look into the various birth models around the world, highlighting how we have slipped into a technocratic, dehumanisation of birth and taking a heartfelt, honest look at the birth models that really do work, should be a 'textbook' for doctors, nurses, midwives and parents to be 3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. A Classic By Helen A. Gordon Not light reading...but if you are into birth and effective models, you must have this one. I often refer to it as I teach maternity nursing to undergraduate nurses. She is a factual writer.

This groundbreaking book takes us around the world in search of birth models that work in order to improve the standard of care for mothers and families everywhere. The contributors describe examples of maternity services from both developing countries and wealthy industrialized societies that apply the latest scientific evidence to support and facilitate normal physiological birth; deal appropriately with complications; and generate excellent birth outcomes—including psychological satisfaction for the mother. The book concludes with a description of the ideology that underlies all these working models—known internationally as the midwifery model of care.
